Pearl Group Staff Pension Scheme

Summer 2025

Welcome

to the summer 2025 edition of Pension news.

I'm sure you're as pleased as I am to see the sunshine returning after a particularly chilly winter! We have a really full edition of Pension news for you this season, including some letters from former Pearl colleagues on pages 4 and 5, and another fiendish crossword by Norman Gray on page 16.

We've also included quite a variety of group updates this time around, including news from the Pearl Chief Officers Association, L Division, F Division, London Life and our Peterborough Pensioners, starting from page 6. As usual, I've thoroughly enjoyed looking through your pictures and updates, so please keep sending them in!

Finally, on page 14, you'll find some wellbeing matters we thought you might find interesting. In this edition, we're exploring different types of scams and how you can protect yourself against them.

I hope you all have a wonderful, warm summer, and I will see you again later in the year for our winter edition.

Best wishes,

Wendy Ludman

Memories of Pearl

Thank you for the latest edition of Pearl Pension news and the time you spend editing it. I always read it with interest. From recent editions, I have learned of the death of several former colleagues with whom I had lost touch.

Thinking about them, I remember the times we spent together at the Pearl in its heyday, especially the weeks in (I think) 1977, when the Controller for Marketing and Sales pioneered the first Pearl television adverts. Not many people will be aware that the Pearl was the first financial company ever to advertise on television.

I can still recall Stanley Baxter in different guises and the punchline 'Are YOU covered with Pearl?'.

Most of all, I remember Chief Office as the place where I met my wife, Susan. Many couples met at Chief Office; we used to call it the Pearl marriage bureau!

We married in 1973 and have two sons, two daughters and ten grandchildren, all thanks to that day in November 1968 when I walked through the revolving door of Chief Office for the first time.

An impecca-bowl achievement!

I was with Pearl Assurance at the Queen Square office in Bristol when an already accomplished bowler colleague piqued my interest in the game of lawn bowls. Who would have thought that several years later I would become a national champion with Torquay Bowls Club, alongside my wife Liz and the rest of the over-60s mixed doubles team!

We also celebrated our Pearl wedding anniversary on 2 December 2024.

Tim Lock

Congratulations!

Pearl Chief Office Pensioners' Association

Sadly, due to the passage of time, we are nearing the end of the Association. On a positive note, we organised a lunch on 13 May to mark the winding-up of the Association after 60 years. At the time of writing, 60 members had indicated their intention to attend the lunch at a family Italian restaurant in the Canary Wharf district of East London.

The Association has also noted with sadness the passing of Eric Voller just before Christmas. We were represented at his funeral by the Secretary and Vice President, Colin Jeffryes. Eric was one of our founding members and played a leading role in the development of the Association in its early years. More recently, Eric accepted the role of President and attended events up until the last few years.

Some photos might be available in the next edition, but for those ex-employees of Chief Office at 252 High Holborn who want to remain in touch, there is an active Facebook page at www.facebook.com/groups/465538686941763, or search 'Pearl Assurance Holborn ex-employees'.

Pensioner reunions

Over 20 attendees were at our annual Christmas lunch, which was held at the Hole in the Wall in Bristol.

The group continues to meet regularly at the Ostrich in Bristol every six to eight weeks, and anyone is welcome to join them.

By the time this goes to print, the group will have also held their reunion, which took place on 7 April.

Please contact Chris Essex if you're interested in attending any meet-ups or events.

L Division

It's been some time since the Northern Ireland staff have had a get-together, and Covid restrictions really were the 'tin hat' that almost made them a thing of the past.

As organiser of the events, I decided that we would try to get a few people together and have lunch in Cookstown, inviting former district office clerks (DOCs), some of whom went on to become office managers. As I started my career 49 years ago as a DOC, I still claim membership to this elite club!

My career with the Pearl was certainly varied. I started as a DOC in the L8 (Omagh) District, then became a General Branch Inspector, Technical Field Inspector, Divisional Operations Manager for L Division, then we were rebranded as part of K Division, then I was District Manager in K17 (Coleraine) and finally back to where I started: District Manager K16 (Omagh).

On Tuesday 14 January, those who were available met with me in the Royal Hotel in Cookstown. Memories were relived, characters from our Pearl career discussed and many laughs were shared. We hope to have a similar gathering in the Coleraine/Portrush area in May, and if any former staff are interested, please contact me so we can keep you updated on plans! My details can be found on page 22.

Hopefully this is the beginning of a rebuilding of such events for those of us who have many happy memories of our time with Pearl Assurance.

F Division

We would like to share a photo from F Division's Christmas lunch, which was held at Diss Golf Club on 27 November 2024.

By the time this goes to print, the group will have also held their reunion, which took place in April.

The Pearl Club: Peterborough

Annual Christmas party

As tables creaked under the weight of the festive food, 61 members attended the annual Christmas party. The group was entertained by a photo quiz from Terry Moon, a free raffle for numerous excellent prizes (donated by the committee and various generous members) and a display of jokes from the monthly newsletter.

Pauline McDermott and Joy Wilson arranged the bulk of the catering, with numerous members providing sandwiches, cakes etc. I'm sure all present would agree that it was a superb afternoon once again.

Bowls

Two taster sessions were enjoyed in February, and from comments received afterwards, the events were an unmitigated success. At each, we received a briefing from a handful of experts (including our own Judith Bates and Colin Leary), and we were then unleashed on the green to try our hand.

We'd all seen how easy it looks on TV, so with unfounded confidence we were soon rolling our woods towards the distant jack with varying degrees of success. If you'd walked in after five minutes, you would have assumed the object of the game was to cover as much of the floor as possible, as there were balls scattered all over our allocated rinks. Despite this, it was a thoroughly enjoyable way to spend a cold and misty afternoon, and some are even considering joining the club in the future.

Speakers

Outside of the summer months, a key feature of our regular meetings is always the guest speaker, and recently we have enjoyed some excellent performances.

Stuart Orme, who has worked as curator at both Peterborough and Huntingdon Museums, brought a wealth of knowledge with him as he walked us through the famous women of Peterborough. From Reverend Ray Hemingway, we heard tales of his encounters with 'the rudest bishop in England', the time he received 'maundy money' from the Queen and how the beer 'Bishop's Farewell' was brewed by Oakham Ales in tribute to Peterborough's renowned Bishop, Bill Westwood (it's still sold today). The most interesting memory was his involvement in personally consecrating the island on which Princess Diana is buried, a feat which involved hiding from numerous paparazzi and being pulled in a small oarless boat across the lake along a wire.

Possibly this season's highlight came from photographer Brian Bignell, who had exclusive access to many of the pop stars of yesteryear, including The Beatles and The Rolling Stones. Unfettered by the security and PR teams of today, Brian had some amazing stories to tell and some brilliant photos to show. His presentation gave us a chance to show off our music knowledge as he introduced many of his photos with songs from the era, which at times had the audience singing along quite beautifully.

Thanks to Pauline McDermott for her hard work in tracking down and booking the various speakers.

Review – Jack Absolute Flies Again

With a rainstorm raging outside, there can't have been many people who made the trip to Stamford Arts Centre who hadn't seriously considered staying indoors. Despite this, around 25 club members made the trip to this lovely town.

The play affectionately lampooned wartime Englishness. It was a tale of the romantic goings-on amongst a squadron of RAF pilots, based in an English stately home during the Battle of Britain. The maximum focus was on the gags, which came so thick and fast that the weather outside was soon forgotten, and laughter began to ring out around the theatre. The acting was genuinely superb throughout, and I can confidently say the ensemble delivered our most enjoyable Stamford visit so far.

Walkers

The walking section continues to enjoy great support in most weather conditions. Back in autumn, recent heavy rain had prompted suggestions we should cancel the September walk altogether, but a promising weather forecast was all the encouragement we needed to meet as planned in the beautiful 'Cotswoldy' village of Easton on the Hill. Mike Field used his experience to avoid the parts of the walk likely to be flooded, and the result was an interesting and entertaining stroll through lush countryside, with some superb views across Stamford thrown in for good measure.

November saw us in the beautiful village of Barnwell, where a lost dog plus two fallen walkers stole the headlines. After ordering food from the local pub, we set off in high spirits as we climbed the path that rose from the village. All of a sudden, somebody asked Bill Collins where his dog was, and the penny dropped that she was nowhere to be seen. While we searched in vain, Bob Pool chose that exact moment to fall over. It was a comical, slow-motion fall, and Bob luckily landed on soft grass, completely unharmed. Colin Jeffries came close to joining him in the mud as he struggled to lift Bob to his feet, and it took several helpers to finally get him back up the right way.

Meanwhile, Bill was searching a nearby ditch, frantically running up and down the bank whilst fearing the worst. Suddenly, something was spotted back at the farmhouse we had passed at least 10 minutes earlier. It was so far away we couldn't make it out at first, but as we approached it became clear it was in fact a lady with a small object.

Colin Leary jogged off (yes, really!) to investigate and quickly returned with the dog in his arms.

Our January walk was notable for people getting lost. The early part of the route went well, but nearing the end, we reached the end of a long avenue of redwoods in Orton Longueville woods. The walk leaders turned to check the group was ok, only to find that around five people had completely disappeared! The path through the woods is straight as an arrow, so where the stragglers had gone was a complete mystery.

As most of those lost were local, we decided they would easily find their way back to the starting point, so we pressed on. Jackie Watling, knowing her husband better than any of us, returned to the church where we had last seen them. Sure enough, the group were still there, having stopped to talk to some ex-Pearl staff who were coincidentally also out walking. After a lengthy chat, they had completely lost their bearings. Paul confessed later to having 'zero sense of direction'. Something to bear in mind on future walks.

Snooker

You couldn't call any of us 'snooker loopy', but those club members who show up regularly seem to get some pleasure out of the click of balls and the squeaking of chalk on a cue tip. There are plenty of laughs to be had (mostly unintentional), with cries of 'Whose go is it?', 'Are our scores top or bottom?' and 'Don't worry, take that shot again' commonplace.

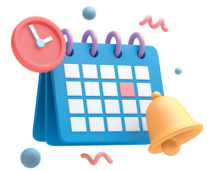

Music

The society has put on a varied programme recently. Corrine Wodding drew a sizeable audience for her 'Requests' presentation, and in October, 25 members came along to experience 'Not quite Strictly'. It's also safe to say that everyone at Tony King's 'Not hymn again' programme recognised all the music chosen. Tony's previous music society appearance was in January 2004, (so not quite like waiting for Halley's comet). Was it worth the wait? It certainly was, and diary entries have been made for 2044!

Bill Collins took up the reins in December, delivering his own Christmas programme. As an added incentive, there was food and a little wine available, with intimate tables rather than theatre-style rows.

Protect yourself from scams and doorstep crime

Doorstep crime and scams are on the increase, accounting for between £5 billion and £10 billion a year. Unfortunately, over half of people over the age of 65 have been targeted by fraudsters and doorstep criminals, and yet these crimes go massively underreported because victims are embarrassed and have been made to feel foolish – which is what the criminals rely on.

While the methods may vary, the purpose is always to get personal information or bank details and money.

The four most common approaches are:

- Postal scams: such as lottery, clairvoyant, catalogue and inheritance scams.
- Phone scams: where you receive a call or text that uses a small amount of your personal information to trick you into revealing a lot more.
- Online scams: 'phishing' (to collect your personal data), 'pharming' (directing users to fake websites that look official), romance scams via social media and impersonation of UK officials, such as HMRC, regarding tax rebates.
- Doorstep crimes: which include distraction burglary, bogus callers or officials, high-pressure doorstep selling, bogus property repairers and rogue traders.

Anyone can be targeted by scammers, but they prey on some of our society's most vulnerable people, who may be elderly, isolated or recently widowed.
